

Teaching experiences: TravelMap

---

¡Hola!

My name is Clément Mas.

I've been travelling around the world for the last 5 years; going on adventures like cycling around Australia or rowing across the Atlantic Ocean. Through these experiences I've learned to know more about the world and myself. It made me a better person and now I want to encourage others to do the same.

TravelMap is one of my projects to reach that goal. I want to inspire people to travel in a sustainable and meaningful way.

I first thought about TravelMap in 2012, when I was about to finish my IT studies, and start travelling for an undetermined amount of time.

I wanted to find an easy way to let my family and friends know where I was and how I was doing.

At the time there were a few travel blog platforms, but they were not that appealing and none of them focused on a map. They were based on text and I don't like writing that much - especially while travelling. I just wanted to be able to press a button to save my position and go on. So I went ahead and built my own travel blog.

The concept worked out well. It was really easy for me to manage and even easier for my family and friends to follow my adventures.

So on the 1st of January, 2014, I released the first public version of TravelMap...

See you at my next talk at CETT!!
